

I support the separation of the 1.8-2.0 MHz amateur band into separate segments for narrow band and wide band modes. Since the band is used extensively for communications under very poor signal to noise conditions, having a mixture of modes is not conducive to good utilization of the band. Segmentation will help.